

Journalism for the Rest of Us

Journalism teaches you to write for life across multiple platforms.

Journalism isn't only for journalists. In the second decade of the 21st century, when anyone can be a publisher, the skills and values journalism teaches are critical to effective communication in every type of work.

Journalism for the Rest of Us emphasizes a cross-platform foundation with focus on the communication styles unique to online, broadcast and print journalism as well as public relations. Students learn and practice these skills in addition to gaining a thorough understanding of ethics and First Amendment issues as they relate to new, constantly changing technologies.

Flexible formats across all grade levels and ages to fit your needs.

Full courses, seminars and individual presentations

For information: Steve Klein

bylinestevекlein@cox.net / 703-625-1968 / @stevекlein